CoB Honors House Becomes Lecture Hall

As explained in Van Arnold's 3-Nov-09 presser entitled "Ford Executive Creel Addresses Business Honors House," Ford Motor Company exec Randy Creel recently visited the CoB's Honors House in order to participate in the CoBHH's guest lecture series. While there Creel was presented a "token of appreciation" by USM student Zach Mansell (see photo below).

According to CoB dean Lance Nail, the creator of the CoBHH, having an honors house puts the CoB on par with a number of major universities in the U.S.

Still No "Word" from Lance

CoB dean Lance Nail (pictured below) has been on the job since 1-July-08 and still there is no "Dean's Message" located on the CoB's website.

CoB faculty have now been waiting about 15 months to see what Nail has (or had?) in store for the CoB.

Clark Hits UMKC Website

Recently departed former CoBer (associate professor of finance) John Clark (pictured below) has hit the UMKC website.

Clark is now an associate professor of finance at UMKC, his former employer of several years before joining the CoB from 2003-09. According to the UMKC website, Clark appears to be mostly involved with the school's certificate program in financial planning. According to the website at UMKC, "[w]hile at USM, [Clark] was the founding Director of the CFP Board approved, financial planning degree program . . ."
