

CoB in Agreement

The statement that nearly everyone in the CoB is in agreement concerning anything is so rare as to be an urban legend. But what he could not do as chair or associate dean, he does in departure: Farhang Niroumand unites the College of Business . . . in elation at his departure after the spring semester. Old George Carter and even older Ed Nissan may miss him, but that will be about it. The person who is known for threats and bullying people to get his way has been out of power in the CoB and soon will be out the CoB doors. Faculty and staff rejoice that another school will have to suffer his taunts, insults, and harassment instead of anyone at USM. Dean Nail will rejoice that a constant trouble-maker is gone; he can further rejoice over a high pay faculty line that can be used to satisfy some of the forecasted 10% budget for next year. This also further helps in the marginalization of the Economics group that has been propped up by hoodwinked administrators for years. Here is surely one time it fits because of this departure: Southern Miss to the Top!
