Dear USMN,

So, [Harold] Doty thinks women are chicks and broads. It's funny then that he employed a chick and a broad to help him go after Karen St. John at [the University of] Texas [at] Tyler.

Dear USM news,

Your new series about [Harold] Doty and [Karen] St. John is no shocker to anyone who knows Doty. St. John makes a claim of gender discrimination for a civil court. I completely get it. However, I wonder if a criminal court would be a reasonable venue as well. One could argue that Doty, [associate dean Mary] Fischer, [Tammy] Cowart and anyone else who participated in this mess were trying to cause St. John to have a miscarriage. They knew she had a high-risk pregnancy. Not allowing her time to eat a mid-day meal and causing the kind of stress they did would possibly lead to such an outcome. They had to have acted with that belief.

Dear USMNEWS:

You are opening some eyes in Tyler. Thank you for covering Karen's [St. John] case against UTT administrators like [Rodney] Mabry and [Harold] Doty. I hate to say it, but those Southern Mississippi people may be the worst thing to happen to UTT is a long time.

Dear usmnews.net,

Do you think Harold Doty's wife, Susan Doty, thinks she hauled in a real catch when she began dating, and ultimately married, him? He's creepy, and that's being nice.
