

GH Chatter

The phrase making up the title of a recent Special Report on the Davida Williams v. USM et al. lawsuit – “The English House Call” – has generated some chatter. According to some it is reminiscent of CoB stories that have circulated over the years, such as “Bobbing for Bs”.

Some are now chatting about the recent CoB administration retreat held at the Canebrake clubhouse. Long-time followers of USMNEWS.net will recall that Canebrake is the elite Hattiesburg neighborhood that is often chosen by CoB administrators. Those from the past who have resided there include Harold Doty, William Gunther, Stephen Bushardt, George Carter, Barry Babin, and more. Word is that this year’s retreat reminded some of the same type of event that previous administrators participated in leading up to the 2007 AACSB reaccreditation effort. Few need reminding of how that effort went.

GH Chatter is a series at USMNEWS that provides a glimpse at what CoB students, and sometimes CoB faculty, are discussing throughout the corridors of Joseph Greene Hall and beyond.
