Some CoB faculty are talking these days about the story that former CoB Associate Dean, Farhang Niroomand, is a finalist for business school Dean at another university. It has been known for some time that Niroomand is in pursuit of such a lofty position, and that he is in competition with former CoB Dean Harold Doty on occasion. If Niroomand is indeed close to landing a new leadership position, as some faculty are saying, you can be sure that USMNEWS.NET will be on the scene covering events as they unfold.

Now that MIS professor, Donna Davis, has been installed as Director of Grad Programs for the CoB, some are saying that the GMAT scores of incoming cohorts will renew the slide they have been on in the past. One reader even projects that the programs' online presence will grow under Davis' guidance. If the past means anything in these cases, it's hard to argue with these water cooler predictions.

GH Chatter is a series at USMNEWS that provides a glimpse at what CoB students, and sometimes CoB faculty, are discussing throughout the corridors of Joseph Greene Hall and beyond.
