

GH Chatter

The situation involving Jim Henderson's use of the SAIS' administrative assistant to proctor his exam in his absence gets more interesting by the day. Now, stories are circulating around Greene Hall about Henderson's imminent retirement. Some are saying that Henderson has decided to retire in December ('08), just as called for in the original editorial about his malpractice.

Apparently EFIB chair George Carter and some of the boys in EFIB aren't too happy about new CoB dean Lance Nail's plans for allocating private donations. That's interesting because it was Carter's administration here, former CoB dean Harold Doty, who instructed us all that private donations are "fun money" that end up in the "booze account." What Carter and the boys in EFIB should keep in mind is that Nail "can pretty much do anything he wants" with these donations. Perhaps what Carter et al. are so upset about is that they are no longer in control. You think?

GH Chatter is a series at USMNEWS that provides a glimpse at what CoB students, and sometimes CoB faculty, are discussing throughout the corridors of Joseph Greene Hall and beyond.
