

GH Chatter

Stories are circulating about 2 or 3 additional retirements following the end of the 2007-08 year later this month. If even one of these comes to fruition, the CoB's human resources situation will go from desperate to something worse.

As the USMNEWS ticker has been scrolling for days, it is believed that UAB's Lance Nail is sitting on an offer from USM President Martha Saunders to be the CoB's next Dean. People are now saying that the proposed salary is "more than $200,000" per year. If the negotiated salary rises that level, then yet another prediction by USMNEWS will have proven true. That prediction was that the CoB Dean's position would soon pay more than its counterpart position at the College of Charleston, which is just below $200,000.

GH Chatter is a series at USMNEWS that provides a glimpse at what CoB students, and sometimes CoB faculty, are discussing throughout the corridors of Joseph Greene Hall and beyond.
