

GH Chatter

Talk around JAG is that new accounting director Skip Hughes has already established dominance over the other chairs in the CoB. Skip has apparently gotten most, if not all, of what he's asked for since arriving in 2009. The latest item appears to be the shifting of the 3rd floor marquee boards, which is amusing to many CoB faculty and staff. The accountants are rarely seen, leading many to laugh at the speed of this latest venture.

Chatter has it that Sonia Gaines-Littles' final days as CoB alternative learning coordinator and executive assistant to the dean were spent organizing the many office moves that are taking place in JAG. Some say that both CoB dean Lance Nail and CoB associate dean Joseph Peyrefitte will actually be out of the office when Gaines-Littles heads off for the final time.

Speaking of offices moves, there is some talk that the outgoing economists have enjoyed being thorns in the way of CoB faculty who are trying to move. After being forced home, or to the CoAL, who can blame them?

GH Chatter is a series at USMNEWS that provides a glimpse at what CoB students, and sometimes CoB faculty, are discussing throughout the corridors of Joseph Greene Hall and beyond.
