

GH Chatter

News that the CoB-GC group is becoming more dysfunctional over time is spreading around Greene Hall (and beyond) a bit. Word is that the “one CoB” theme of the past is further from true now than it ever has been.

All of the communiqués on ISI journal rankings coming from the dean’s office have some CoB faculty speculating that the journal rankings developed by Sami Dakhli’s journal ranking committee in 2007-08 will have little to no importance in annual and T&P evaluations. Dean Nail was not around when that ranking process, which was one shown by USMNEWS.net to be highly politicized, was completed. It would be our guess that CoB faculty should, assuming they use rankings to make decisions, be going with the ISI stuff over Dakhli’s lists.

GH Chatter is a series at USMNEWS that provides a glimpse at what CoB students, and sometimes CoB faculty, are discussing throughout the corridors of Joseph Greene Hall and beyond.
