

Get To Know...

Jim Henderson

Rank: Associate Professor
Department: School of Accounting and Information Systems
Specialty Field: Financial Accounting
Degrees: Ph.D. (Texas A&M), M.S. (University of Memphis), B.S. (Harding University), Certified Public Accountant
Areas of Interest: Higher Education Administration
Vita Public: No
Business Source Complete Entries:
Faculty research from the perspective of accounting academicians,
By: King, J.G.; Henderson, J.R. Journal of Education for Business, Mar/Apr91, Vol. 66 Issue 4, p203
Google® Scholar Traces:
First Entry:

1. Faculty Research from the Perspective of Accounting Academicians. (EJ422377)
Author(s): King, Jerv G.; Henderson, James R.	Pub Date: 1991-00-00
Source: Journal of Education for Business, v66 n4 p203-07 Mar-Apr 1991	Pub Type(s): Journal Articles; Reports - Research
	Peer-Reviewed: N/A
Descriptors: Accounting ; College Faculty ; Faculty Promotion ; Faculty Publishing ; Higher Education ; Productivity ; Research ; Rewards ; Salaries
Abstract: A questionnaire solicited information and opinions from 152 accounting professors about research, promotion and salary increases, and publication productivity and outlets. Results suggest that accounting education is at a crossroads: individual faculty emphasize teaching; policies on promotion and tenure emphasize research. (JOW)
Full-Text Availability Options: Not available from ERIC Find in a Library
2. Money in the Classroom. (EJ415148)
Author(s): Henderson, James R.	Pub Date: 1990-00-00
Source: College Teaching, v38 n3 p102,104-05 Sum 1990	Pub Type(s): Journal Articles; Reports - Evaluative; Opinion Papers
	Peer-Reviewed: N/A
Descriptors: Classroom Techniques ; College Instruction ; Competition ; Educational Strategies ; Feedback ; Higher Education ; Incentives ; Instructional Effectiveness ; Money Management ; Positive Reinforcement ; Rewards ; Student Motivation ; Student Participation
Abstract: A suggested college classroom technique for motivating and rewarding student learning is the payment of play dollars to students for correct answers, attendance, and success in pop quizzes. The method is designed to encourage, not discourage, class participation, and provides students with immediate feedback on performance. (MSE)
Full-Text Availability Options:

Second Entry:

Jordan, C.E. and J.R. Henderson, "Evaluating the Financial Health of Midwestern Banks," Ohio CPA Journal 49:2, 1990, pp. 42-46.

Pertinent RateMyProfessor.com Comments:

10/29/05 ACC 325 1 1 2 3 All he did was talk about golf and his house.

Pertinent usmnews.net Reports/Opinions:

<http://www.usmnews.net/SAIS%20News%20April%202007.pdf>

Comments:

Jim Henderson, the former USM VP of Finance, seems to be enjoying the good life since returning to the CoB faculty. Efforts to track down Henderson's research agenda began in 1990 and ended in 1991 with a total of 3 published articles during that period. There are no traces of research before or after that period on Google® Scholar or Business Source Complete.

Usmnews.net reports that Henderson is the CoB's best and most visible golfer, a fact that may be verified on any given day at one of Hattiesburg's finer golf courses. It's apparently prep work for classes, though, as Henderson reportedly talks about golf constantly in his managerial accounting courses.

Question of the Day: Henderson's a likeable guy, but does he really earn his $112,360 9-month salary?

Our Advice: Next time you see Jim Henderson, let him play through!