

Got Early Finals?

Fall Semester 2009 Apparently Already Over for CoB MKT Faculty, Perhaps Others

Judging by her recent 17-Nov-09 blog on the USM homepage, CoB marketing student Kiersten Knaus' fall semester 2009 is already over. On that day she wrote:

This is the last full week of "real" (lecture and take notes) classes, because next week is Thanksgiving and the following week I have several early finals.

The entry above would mean that school is probably out for Knaus. We know from earlier reports on her 28-Aug-09 blog that she took marketing research with the CoB's Melinda Andrews and that she worked on a project with the CoB's Jamye Foster, both from MKT. With that, if the CoB's other marketing faculty (Michael Wittmann, etc.) are behaving the same way, they all got to view the 2-Dec-09 USM tree lighting ceremony (see photo below) unencumbered by any more USM responsibilities for 2009.

If you have been more diligent this semester, and aren't holding finals until next week as scheduled, your vacation has to wait another week. If you see any of Knaus' professors, your own CoB colleagues, in the coming days, be sure to ask how their (early) Christmas holidays are going.
