

Lost Horizons

In June 2008, Mary Morgan Anderson claimed an Accounting Horizons publication for her vita. Under the CoB journal rankings, Accounting Horizons is an A-level pub.

(Q=plaintiff's question; A=Anderson's response):

Q. Do you have any A publications?

A. About seven or eight.

Q. Are they feature articles?

A. Yes.

Q. Are they solo publications?

A. No.

Q. Who did you partner with on those?

A. Mainly Dr. [Ted] Englebrecht.

Q. Anyone else?

A. Possibly a current one that is Accounting Horizons is [with] Tim Bisping and Tommy Phillips and [Ted] Englebrecht. Tracy Bundy is on one of them. Joann -- and I might be getting the A's and B's mixed up here. Joann, I can't even remember her last name.

Did Anderson tell the "whole truth" about her academic research record in the testimony above? Reporters at USMNEWS.NET sought to investigate that very question as it relates to the illusory Accounting Horizon's article. A diligent search of Accounting Horizons has not identified a single publication under Dr. Morgan's name.

If this paper exists at all, it has the longest "in press" time since Martha D. Saunders' alleged "in-press" publication in the Journal of Ethics in Leadership. (Reporters are still looking for that one, too.)

Stay tuned for more on Dr. Anderson's research record.
