

November 15, 2007

Dear usmnews.net,

I have seen that Jon Carr's recent publication in The Academy of Management Journal is prominently displayed now in the Greene Hall publication case. That is an outstanding accomplishment for Jon and for the College. What I would like know, and I am sure something other business faculty want to know, is why such a distinction earned Jon only the sixth biggest merit raise (2007) in the whole College. Not one of the people in front of Jon (Mike Wittmann, Sami Dakhliia, Akbar Marvasti, Alvin Williams and John Clark) deserve anything close to the raise that Jon should have gotten this year. The fact that they all got more than he did is terrible.

Thank you for posting the raises each year. Now we know that Alvin Williams makes $175,000 and that John Clark makes almost $20,000 more than Jon Carr. Everyone should know this.

Sincerely,

<name withheld>