Old George Carter hands his publisher another fine schedule for the 2009 spring semester. Ed Nissan has 3 classes, but all are in 3-hour blocks, rather than in the traditional two-day schedule. This gets Ed a teaching schedule that covers only Monday afternoon and night, and Tuesday afternoon. Everyone does not get that option. It obviously pays well to put George's name on papers one gets published. This also makes it easier for George to cover Ed's classes when (at this point it is not worth even mentioning "if") Ed is late returning from the semester break. This semester was about three weeks of covering for Ed. Apparently no one in administration cares about such inappropriate conduct. Once more, a sweet deal for Ed from old George; this is, as always, another perks for buds.
