

Seven Questions

Interviews with Current/Former CoB Faculty about Life in and Outside the CoB

Seven Questions is a series here at USMNEWS.net where current and former CoB profs are interviewed by USMNEWS.net. Their answers to seven questions promise to be both informative and interesting. Let's get to the next round of seven questions for our third different former CoBer:

Q1. In 1-3 sentences, how would you describe your experience as a faculty in USM's business college?

It was good when I arrived. Some scholars were doing good work. Slowly but surely, the administrators pushed out the door anyone who was competent. USM became a joke in short order.

Q2. How would you compare your current institution to USM?

Professional and highly regarded.

Q3. In your view, how does former CoB dean Harold Doty rate as a business school dean?

ZERO. The worst I have ever seen. He is a [CHARACTERIZATION DELETED] like the rest of them--only out for himself.

Q4. Did you know about the CoB's recent AACSB accreditation troubles?

No.

Q5. What major change, in your view, is the CoB most in need of?

I think it is too late to right the ship.

Q6. Recently, management professor Stephen Bushardt retired from the CoB. In your view, was that a plus or a minus?

A plus.

Q7. If offered, would you return to the business faculty at USM?

No. Well, maybe at $250K-plus per year and a 2/1 teaching load.