Let me go at things this way – Mr. Mack, has Dr. Blue ever criticized university administration in her class?

Yes, she definitely has.

And, did you ever report that to President Allrides at one of your weekly lunches?

Don't answer that, Mr. Mack. This line of questioning is going nowhere.

Yes sir, Provost Truegal.

At this point, President Allrides, may I ask why there are no students on the panel?

Mr. Duper, we were slotted for one student, but Dr. Treelung volunteered to serve on the panel instead.

I resent what Mr. Duper is insinuating, President Allrides. I'll have everyone here know that I teach a course on fairness in the graduate business program.

I would add that Dr. Treelung does a phenomenal job for us, Madame President.

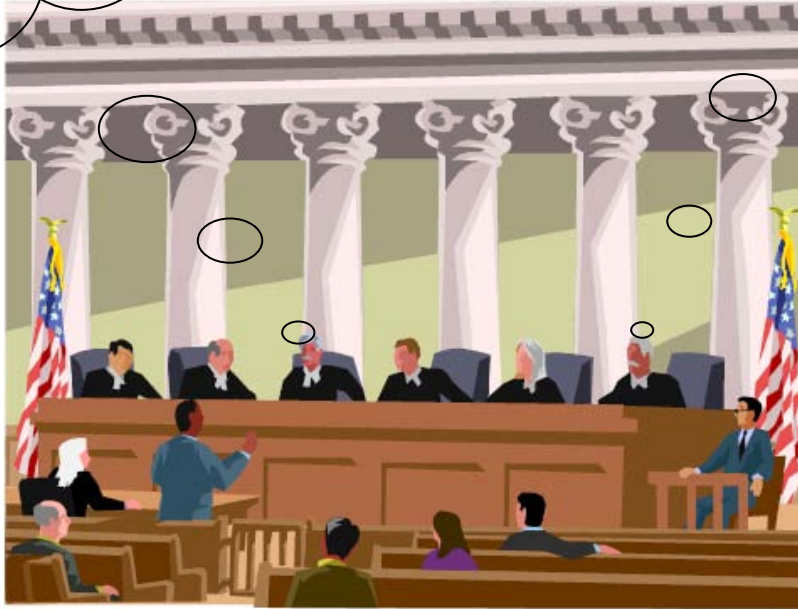

Enough gentlemen! This discussion isn't getting us anywhere either.

It's a fundamental issue of fairness, Madame President, that a student be allowed . . .

Madame President, Dr. Blue is scowling at me right now. It looks like something right out of The Exorcist. I move that we suspend her, and ban her from campus.

It is frightening, President Allrides. I second Dr. Gaskett's motion.

This is a due process issue, Madame President. Let's not end these proceedings now.

I don't believe that your client has any rights here, Mr. Duper. I do agree, though, that these proceedings should go on.

She should be banned, and everyone knows it! Take this!
