I vote "yes," Red votes "no," Dr. Nearydom votes "yes," Cynthia votes "yes," and Teddy Hoda voted "no" by way of a certified letter. By my count the changes are approved.

But Dr. Treelung, a major curriculum change like the one we are considering requires a two-thirds approval. By my count, the changes got only 60%.

There are four votes "yes," and two votes "no." That's a two-thirds majority victory for us.

But you counted only three "yes," and there are just five of us on the committee . . .

Stop whining Red, Dean Toady also voted "yes" You lost.

But Dean Toady is ex-officio only . . .

Red, are you trying to stir the pot? If you are, it may come back on you!

I have Dean Toady's e-mail in my office. He voted "yes," as Dr. Nearydom pointed out. I don't know what to tell you, Red. You lost this one.
