

Thoughts about Donnie Tyndall from EaglePost

by up2stuff » Mon Mar 30, 2015 1:32 pm

PKT_SoMiss wrote:At least Ellis didn't cheat.

That we know of, PKT, but that doesn't necessarily mean he didn't. And if he did, who the hell would give a damn. The fact that we hired him and had to pay him a few million to leave was probably punishment enough in everyone's eyes. Hell, I think even Ole Miss and State fans feel sorry for us. 🙄

Cheating in the NCAA is so rampant that it's really "guilty until proven you're a big boy". And then you're still guilty but we'll look the other way. The sad part is, Tyndall didn't get caught because we were suddenly so good everyone wondered how - Tyndall was caught because he pissed someone off and they ratted on him.

Don't get me wrong - no I don't support Southern Miss "cheating" or hiring coaches that "cheat". It's just sad how the whole thing actually works.