

(March 1, 2007) The editor just (about 12:15 pm) had the following childish conversation with Dean Doty:

DHD: Stop spreading lies.

CMD: I'm not.

DHD: Yes you are.

CMD: No I'm not.

DHD: Everybody's laughing at you.

CMD: Good. Enjoy it.

DHD: You're an idiot.

CMD: You're the idiot.

DHD: No I'm not.

When I walked away, he looked like a pouty faced little boy. By the way, Dean Doty forgot to tell me what lies he thinks I'm spreading. I can't think of any. However, Dean Doty seems to think disagreement and different points of view are lies. cmd
