Greetings USM news!

Aren't Akbar Marvasti's antics becoming an embarrassment for the college? One would think so. But it looks like the administration is either losing control of things or doesn't care.

What is going on with the search for economists this year is transparent to everyone. And what is happening there sure fits the bird dog mentality among some in the COB's economics department. If it is true that Niroomand and Marvasti are planning to hire their friend's daughter, then that is bad. Let's not add a waste of money on all the rest, no matter how much fun they think it will be.
